TOUR 275 – Tourism and the Sustainable Development Goals

Presented by: Roy Jantzen

TOUR 275 – Tourism and the Sustainable Development Goals is a new course designed to give students the opportunity to apply tourism concepts in sustainable development to address sustainability challenges in a global context and learn how both business and personal actions relate to the Sustainable Development Goals. This course is designed to be implemented as an elective in spring 2023 for all Global and Community Studies students.

During the review and discussion of the course, the Tourism and Outdoor Recreation Management SCC representative requested that SCC consider changes on the floor to the course outline as posted to Chat. The posted outline included various revisions to course content and learning outcomes.
