

Outdoor Filmmaking Certificate

Tell powerful stories with your art

Combine your love of nature with your storytelling skills to create meaningful documentary films in the Outdoor Filmmaking Certificate program at Capilano University.

Learn from experienced filmmakers

Instructors in the program have decades of experience in B.C.'s film industry and will provide mentorship and guidance as you grow your skills and confidence behind the camera.

Get a well-rounded education

In addition to courses in documentary production, sound recording, directing, lighting, camera work and post-production, you'll also train in environmental stewardship, business writing and tourism management.

Study in B.C.'s backcountry playground

All your classes in the certificate are held at CapU Squamish, only steps away from breathtaking nature in every direction. We also offer student housing, a full-service restaurant and on-campus recreation facilities.
